Certificate Validity

Standard Validity Period

The Certificate of Qualification is valid for the release of the Qualified Product specified above, for commercialisation by the Supplier under the Product Name specified above.

Annual Renewal

The Certificate of Qualification is due for renewal in January each year during the lifetime of the SWIFTNet 6 release. Renewal does not require testing and is free of charge.

Withdrawal of Certificates

The Supplier warrants and represents that the Qualified Product meets the full scope of the current SWIFTNet Specifications at the time of Qualification and throughout the time the Qualified Product remains qualified.

If the Supplier fails to ensure continued compliance with the current SWIFTNet Specifications throughout the time the Qualified Product remains qualified, the Qualification Authority may withdraw the Qualification. In case of such withdrawal, the Qualified Product will be removed from the Qualification Register, and the Supplier may no longer use the Certificate of Qualification and the Qualification Trademark and is no longer entitled to obtain SWIFT Support relating to this product.

Qualification Register

The SWIFTNet 6 Qualification Register therefore offers the most authoritative information on the qualification status of any SWIFTNet 6 Qualified Product.

New Qualifications

A new Qualification is required when SWIFT changes the Product Standard for a SWIFTNet interface (typically at a new SWIFTNet release), when the Supplier brings a material change to the Qualified Product or reduces its features, when the Qualified Product is commercialised by a new Supplier under the same or another product name, or when the Qualified Product is renamed by the same Supplier.

Qualification Trademark

SWIFT grants the supplier the right to use the below mentioned Qualification Trademark in connection to the Qualified Product, as from the Qualification of the product until termination of this Agreement or withdrawal of the Qualification, whichever occurs first:
